

Stephanie Kramer grew up with great examples from her parents on the importance of giving to others no matter the need! They have been a constant example of that throughout her life. Her mom did a lot of work with Ingham Medical for the festival of trees and other events. So, when Stephanie was approached about the start of a women's group for McLaren, she, her mom, and sisters were very excited to get on board! She also had special excitement because of her husband, Pete's involvement with the building of the new McLaren Hospital! The level of investment and commitment to the healthcare of the Lansing region that McLaren was showing was something she wanted to support and get behind!

Stephanie said "the McLaren Women's Giving Circle is a very special group of women, many of whom are very hardworking women in the McLaren Hospital system! The themed meetings make it fun and interesting with a variety of topics and activities! We have been lucky to hear some very inspirational and informative women speak! Our group has a lot of heart and passion for making McLaren Greater Lansing the best it can be!"

She continued this sentiment with "I will always continue to support this group for all the good things we do, and for the wonderful women involved in it, and for the incredible things the hospital offers for our Lansing Community! We are always looking for other women who are committed to the healthcare needs in the Lansing area!"
